THE COMPANY

Installed properly. Designed to last.

The Chichester Door Company supplies and installs composite, timber, aluminium and uPVC doors for homes across Chichester and West Sussex.

The work starts with the house. We look at the opening, the style of the property and how the door will be used, then specify colour, glass and furniture to suit. You get a clear quotation, and a view of the chosen door on your own home, before anything is ordered.

Samples are here to handle. Aftercare is part of the job.

01 — COMPOSITE

The presence of timber, without the upkeep.

Composite is the front door most of our customers choose. It feels solid, holds its colour, and suits both a cottage and a new house.

We are an Endurance Installer Partner. Endurance doors are built around a solid timber core, with a low-maintenance external finish, and the brand is among the ten composite ranges installers quote most often. Where another range suits the property better, we will say so.

- Secure, heavyweight construction
- Colour that does not need painting
- Traditional panelled doors and modern glazed doors
- Glass, handles, knockers and letterplates to suit
- Side panels, toplights, porch doors and stable doors

UPVC

The practical door.

Right for the side, the back, and a careful budget.

WHERE IT WINS

- It costs less than a composite door
- Low maintenance, a long life, and it can be recycled
- Styles, glass and colour enough for most openings
- A sensible back door, side door or utility door

WHERE IT GIVES WAY

- It can feel lighter in the hand
- Fewer ways to make the front elevation special
- Security and presence usually stop short of composite uPVC still earns its place. It is just rarely the door we would put on the street.

COMPOSITE

The front door.

The weight of timber. None of the painting.

WHERE IT WINS

- A solid timber core, and a heavier, quieter close
- The look of timber, in a colour that does not need paint
- Stronger security, and a 10-year guarantee on the Endurance Cleeve we feature
- Glass, furniture and RAL colour chosen for the house
- Already 36% of the PVCu door market. Homeowners have moved this way.

THE HONEST CATCH

- It costs more than a standard uPVC door. That is the trade.

If the door faces the street, we start with composite.

DOOR FURNITURE

The last thing a hand touches.

The handle, the knocker and the letterplate are specified with the door. Not added once the colour has already been chosen.

Premium

Satin brass, stainless steel, matte black. Square pulls and lever roses.

Forged

Pewter and forged black. Monkey-tail handles, spire knockers.

Nature

Bees, shells, dragonflies and paws. A door with a story.

Classic

Chrome, gold, graphite, bronze and black. Urn knockers and doctor's knockers.

Heritage & Architectural

The same care, pared back to a clean line.

Urban

Stainless steel, kept simple.

02 — TIMBER, A PREMIUM DOOR

Tantalisingly timber.

Specified, not defaulted to. A premium door for a house with a history.

ABOUT 7% OF THE MARKET BY VALUE. THAT IS THE POINT.

So convincingly timber in appearance, you would be forgiven for thinking it was the real thing. That is The Residence Collection. For a true timber door we work with Country Hardwood — windows, doors and joinery.

Traditional, heritage and contemporary. The door for a period house, a cottage, or any entrance that should feel as though it has always been there.

COLLECTION

Designed, not just fitted.

Aluminium is the premium contemporary entrance. Slim sightlines, a powder-coated colour, and the strength for a glazed door or a run of sidelights. Unlike steel, it does not rust. The South East specifies more of it than anywhere else in the country.

What people are actually choosing.

36%

of PVCu doors sold are now composite. The ordinary plastic front door is no longer the default.

36%

of those composite doors are anthracite grey. Black, white and blue each account for about one in ten.

30%

of the UK windows and doors market, by value, is aluminium. The South East specifies more of it than any other region.

7%

is timber's share by value. A premium door. People ask for it. They do not stumble into it.

Thirty-eight percent of UK homes were built before 1946. Chichester is full of them. The door should know which house it is on.

Composite. The weight of timber. None of the painting.
